The Grand Jury charges:

COUNT ONE

(Conspiracy to Violate the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act)
(All Defendants)

At all times relevant, unless otherwise specified:

1. The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, as amended, Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78dd-1, et seq. (the “FCPA”), was enacted by Congress for the purpose of, among other things, making it unlawful to act corruptly in furtherance of an offer, promise, authorization or payment of money or anything of value, directly or indirectly, to a foreign official for the purpose of obtaining or retaining business for, or directing business to, any person.

Overview of the Scheme

2. Between in or about 2010 and continuing until in or about 2018, defendants GLENN OZTEMEL, GARY OZTEMEL, and EDUARDO INNECCO, together and with others, agreed to pay, and did pay, bribes to foreign officials at Brazil's state-owned and state-controlled oil and gas company, Petróleo Brasileiro S.A. – Petrobras (“Petrobras”), on behalf of Trading Company #1, Trading Company #2, and Oil Trade & Transport S.A. (“OTT”), a company owned and controlled by GARY OZTEMEL. In exchange for the bribes, foreign officials at Petrobras, including Rodrigo Berkowitz (“Berkowitz”), who has been charged separately, provided GLENN OZTEMEL, GARY OZTEMEL, INNECCO and others with confidential information related to Petrobras's business. The inside information and other improper assistance Berkowitz provided to GLENN OZTEMEL, GARY OZTEMEL, INNECCO and others gave Trading Company #1, Trading Company #2, and OTT improper business advantages in trades with Petrobras.

3. To conceal the scheme, INNECCO used coded language in his communications with GLENN OZTEMEL and GARY OZTEMEL to refer to bribes and bribe amounts. In addition, GLENN OZTEMEL, GARY OZTEMEL, INNECCO and their co-conspirators used personal email accounts, fictitious names, and encrypted messaging applications to communicate in furtherance of the scheme, particularly regarding the confidential Petrobras information they received from Berkowitz.

4. In furtherance of and to promote the corrupt bribery scheme, GLENN OZTEMEL and INNECCO, together and with others, agreed to and did cause employees of Trading Company #1 and Trading Company #2, located in the District of Connecticut, to transmit the corrupt payments from bank accounts in the United States to and through bank accounts in Switzerland and Uruguay. The payments were made pursuant to invoices sent from INNECCO to GLENN OZTEMEL and others, which sought payment for purported consulting fees and commissions.

5. In addition, and in furtherance of and to promote the corrupt bribery scheme, GLENN OZTEMEL, GARY OZTEMEL, and INNECCO agreed to and did cause OTT to facilitate multiple “back-to-back” trades between OTT and Petrobras on the one hand, and OTT and Trading Company #1 or Trading Company #2 on the other. In those back-to-back trades, OTT purchased fuel oil from Petrobras and immediately sold the fuel oil to Trading Company #1 or Trading Company #2 at a higher price. GARY OZTEMEL thereafter caused OTT to transmit corrupt payments, funded at least in part from OTT’s profits on the “back-to-back” trades between OTT and Petrobras, from bank accounts in the United States to INNECCO to and through bank accounts in Switzerland.

6. INNECCO paid a portion of the money he received from Trading Company #1, Trading Company #2, and OTT to Berkowitz and others as bribes. The bribes were paid into a bank account in Uruguay and in cash.

Gary,

Met key people last evening. Glad to inform they ready to start discussing future business with [Trading Company #1] through you, under conditions they already told us, i.e., 60cts/bbl [(cents/barrel)] for the whole group.

There is only one little problem: in principle max [number] of people Archie can invite for breakfast is 25, and that [would] leave some key people (although not top people) with no breakfast.
